Many children in less privileged areas across Cebu City have limited access to hands-on technology education. As digital skills become increasingly essential, these young learners are often left behind due to lack of resources, inadequate facilities, and budget constraints.

Catch Codey is the latest project by DEVCON Cebu, launched to address this gap. Instead of bringing students to a central location, Catch Codey brings the learning experience directly to selected barangays within Cebu. DEVCON volunteers visit local schools and community centers to conduct 3-hour workshops, with each session focused on a specific topic—such as basic coding, logic, robotics, or digital literacy—tailored to the specific needs of learners in each barangay. These workshops are hands-on, interactive, and age-appropriate helping children develop interest and gain confidence in the field of technology.

For the current Catch Codey initiative, DEVCON will collaborate with Pathways and GDG to deliver a one-day technology outreach program on March 14, 2026 from 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM. The primary beneficiaries of this event are the students of Ramon Duterte National High School, which is located in V. Rama Ave., Guadalupe, Cebu City.

Moreover, this initiative supports several Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), most notably SDG 4: Quality Education, by promoting inclusive and equitable access to technology and digital skills through hands-on, community-based learning. It also advances SDG 10: Reduced Inequalities by addressing educational and digital gaps experienced by students in less privileged areas. By introducing learners to coding, robotics, and digital literacy at an early stage, the project also contributes to SDG 9: Industry, Innovation, and Infrastructure, fostering interest in innovation and future-ready skills. Furthermore, the collaboration among DEVCON, PathWays, and GDG reflects SDG 17: Partnerships for the Goals, highlighting the importance of multi-sectoral partnerships in delivering sustainable and impactful community initiatives.

Ultimately, Catch Codey serves as a meaningful step toward creating a more inclusive and technologically empowered generation of learners.

III. OBJECTIVES

1) To deliver accessible and interactive computer science education to children in Grades 4 to 9 across various barangays.
2) To foster curiosity and confidence in young learners by introducing STEM concepts through fun, supportive, and age-appropriate activities, regardless of prior exposure to technology.
3) To collaborate with barangay officials, educators, and local volunteers in establishing a sustainable, inclusive learning environment that promotes long-term community engagement in technology and innovation.
